

Hennion and Walsh Spreads Christmas Cheer to Underprivileged Children

Press Release
January 12, 2009

Hennion and Walsh (<http://www.hennionandwalsh.com>) employees recently brought the Christmas of a lifetime to 35 underprivileged children in Morris County.

Parsippany, NJ – Hennion and Walsh (<http://www.hennionandwalsh.com>) worked overtime to bring the Christmas celebration of a lifetime to 35 underprivileged Morris County children, ages 5 to 12. Over 80 executives and staff, including Hennion and Walsh partners Bill Walsh and Richard Hennion, participated in the preparations and event day activities to make this season a special one for all the children involved.

The Christmas celebration donated by Hennion and Walsh included a traditional turkey and ham Christmas dinner with all of the trimmings. The program for the day included Christmas caroling, arts and crafts activities, and the reading of Christmas poems and stories.

The children eagerly unwrapped loads of toys and gifts brought by Santa in answer to their Christmas wish lists. Additionally, to help with the more practical side of life, each child received shoes, socks, scarves and gloves from their friends at Hennion and Walsh.

“The event was tremendous and everyone present, both young and old, experienced the happiness and joy of the season,” said Bill Walsh, President of Hennion and Walsh. “As a Firm, we pride ourselves in the work that we do with individuals, and coming together to work for these young individuals, bringing smiles to their faces, is some of most gratifying work we do all year long.”

The Hennion and Walsh event brought such happiness and joy to these children and their families that it was featured on the front page of Morris County newspaper, The Neighbor News.
